H. T. Rogers Dead.

Mr. Sam J. Rogers, yesterday, received a brief telegram from his sister-in-law at Lynchburg, Virginia, telling him her husband, Mr. H. T. Rogers had died at that place. Mr. Rogers had the agency for a Mill Supply House and had but just established his headquarters at Lynchburg, when he was taken ill with typhoid fever. No particulars are so far known about the burial. Mr. Rogers was well known here where he had long been in business and had a wide circle of friends. The news of his untimely death will be received with much sorrow by those who knew and loved the big hearted, whole souled, genial, friend and companion.

Later.—Mr. Rogers' remains will be brought here Wednesday. The burial will be at Crown Hill Cemetery, Shreveport.

Mr. G. W. Baird and wife leave to-day for Atlanta, Ga., to attend the great Southern Exposition, which is now being held in that city. Mr. Baird will furnish us each week during his stay with a letter in regard to the exhibition and the South, which will be of interest to our readers. They will be absent until November 1st.

The Central University foot-ball team, of Richmond, played the K. W. C. boys at Winchester Saturday, which resulted in Winchester's defeat by a score of 10 to 0.

Never Next—Always Ahead.

Jack Tharp has moved his barber shop to the Commercial Hotel, and he has moved his trade with him. When a young man wants to go to see his best girl on business (?) he always has Jack or one of his men fix him up for the occasion. The fact is Jack runs the best barber shop in the State. He always treats his customers politely and insists that those employed by him shall do the same. The consequence is Mr. Tharp has built up a trade that he has no fear of any one breaking down. Mr. Tharp extends a cordial invitation to all his old customers, and to any others who want good work and courteous treatment, to call and see him in his new quarters at the Commercial Hotel. He promises all, that no shop shall be better equipped to give good service than his and that he will personally see to it, that everything is done decently and in

Why Not You?

When thousands of people are taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to overcome the weakness and languor which are so common at this season, why are you not doing the same? When you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla has the power to cure rheumatism, dyspepsia and all other disease caused by impure blood, why do you continue to suffer? Hood's cures others, why not you?

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient, 75 cents.

Three Killed.

Mr. A. B. Ratliff report to us a distressing accident that occurred near his father's residence not far from Sharpburg on Thursday. A party of men are constructing a turnpike through the neighborhood and had prepared a blast. The charge of powder was unusually large and many persons had come in from the neighborhood to see it explode. When the fuse was fired all went to a safe distance and waited, as they thought a full time for the blast to fire. The time for the fuse to convey the fire to the powder having expired, several men went up to see what was the matter. Three of the party were bending over the place where the hole was driven when the blast exploded, killing the three men. One wounded, Bowling Young, a man from Nicholas county, son of the contractor, and two other young men from Mason county. They were all frightfully mangled. In a few minutes more curiosity would have brought a great number within the danger line.

Dr. W. T. Tibbs will fill the pulpit at the Christian church next Sunday, in the absence of the pastor Elder H. D. Clark, at the general Christian Endeavor Convention at Dallas, Texas.

Death of Mrs. Carrie King.

Mrs. Carrie King, aged 89, a most estimable woman, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. Annie E. Bean, on Sunday. Mrs. King's maiden name was Jones and she was twice married, but for more than a score of years she has been a second time widowed. For a number of years she has been an almost helpless invalid and has been tenderly cared for by her kinwoman. Born almost at the sunrise of the century she lived till the God of day was sinking rapidly into the West. Her life was like her death, quiet, and so far as she could order it, peaceful and gentle.

The funeral takes place to-day at Mrs. Bean's residence, one mile West of town, Rev. A. J. Arrick conducting the service. The burial will be in Macphail.

A New Species of Tobacco.

A peculiar kind of tobacco has developed this season on J. M. Richard's Salt Well farm, save the Bath County Banner. From one stalk three separate and distinct branches have radiated, each branch containing about the usual number of fully developed leaves borne by one plant. In the crop there were fully 500 stalks developing this peculiarity. In addition to the increased yield, the stalks do not have to be split, as is always the case when putting it in the barn, as one of the prongs saved all that trouble.

If you are looking for the newest and nicest attraction you can't go by Mrs. Kate O. Clarke's. Every day she is adding the newest novelties in millinery, notions, etc.

TO THE STREET CHILD PEOPLE.

You who crouch along the pavement gutter
Or in your haunts of
And find the ripple of your stained chatter
Enough to feed your soul
Hear, you brave butterflies, who stroll through Down Bond street, all alike,
This message blown from leagues of purple leather.
From fern and field and dale.
Hear ye the song of those who stand asunder
From busy ways of
Who hold communion with the nameless wonder
That haunts the misty glen.
Who love the wind that whistles through the
And feels the sun pond.
The ruddy glowland and the dripping beads
And the blue hills
When have you listened while the snipe is drumming
Or paused to catch the curlew's whistle coming
For hearted across the mead?
When have you, lingering in the forest marches
Through twilight of Seen the big brown owl stoop between the larches,
A noiseless passerby?
Thank you great nature doth not smile en-genuity
At all your little play.
Your lachrymated words of the smart and seamy.
You suppose of today?
Why, Pan looks upward to the silver plateaus.
When all the world is dumb.
And softly laughs amid his sleeping daisies
To hear the city's hum.

CAMP CHARITY.

"I frequent finds myself" taking a notion ag'n in my word," said the old cattleman as he lighted a cigar, "same as I do ag'n in some people. There's the word 'charity' as shurely wears me a hat. Not but what I believe in givin', an as fast as I runs up with a human being in a hole I most likely lays off a day an pulls him out. But I don't like this yere word 'charity' none whatever. It seems like it puts you on a horse an leaves the other man afoot. It sets you way up an the man who takes it way down yander.
"What you all calls 'charity' in the east is nuthin but plain every-day business on the range, an you sees it round your camp as common as cactus, an so you ain't applaud in or absoosin or speculating on it none whatever.
"You see, son, it occurs numerous in the west this many a good me rolls onto his blanket in the mornin to find his luck done stampeeded in the night. This yere existence of ours is just the same as a cow pony. We throws on our saddles an draws the front cinch tight an we take loose, accordin to our notion; we swings on, sticks in our spurs an away we all goes. But this yere week or next, some time or other, we finds we've cinched the hall on to some high, half-broke broncho of a situation, an it stays with it all we knows, an spite of curb, quirt, buck in straps an spurs we discovers ourselves bucked plumb out an off, afoot an alone in the wilderness of some disaster.
"Such a catastrophe shouldn't be counted ag'n in no one. The best rid-er as ever see spurs will frequent find his pony saying 'adieu' most redies in an unexpected. I've struck grass head fast an mighty involuntarily a whole lot myse' if an looks to find it in my face plenty often yet before I ceases to whirl my rope.
"This yere teaches me a lot, an you'll be plenty justified in takin odds that as frequent as a squar man gets shot too hard to hold his gun an me see it, I bucks his play with mine. He don't slip from his saddle none while I can hold him thar; go gambol on it. I broke broncho no more churches than calabashes, no more preachers than police, but I saves when to he's a pard withouten no teachin.
"Speakin of preachers an police, do you know I allows the best must somehow belong to the same outfit; 'cause whenever you crosses the trail of one you'll shurely find the hoof prints of the other. They seems to come west together, they do. Well, I s'pose they're workin the same round up, an it's all right an proper too. The preachers are ridin the ridges an mess an the p'lice the valleys an dark sinful canyons of human life. It was just bet a brandin with the same ruin for for decency an law.
"I've gone on yere a heap about doin of benevolences, an I recalls a little missionary play it comes our way to make a good man of it. A. T., some years back on the trail. The victim in this yere charitable cloudstraw was a woman.
"Thar ain't nuthin as will rouse up an conscience a western man as the spectacle of a female of his species a-gittin the worst of the deal. He'll froth an paw round frightful at the mere idee.
"This yere episode I hereby relates was this way. It was just bet the fourth drinkin—as you all says, a. m.—an a band of us was standin an stampan round the bar of the Red Light a-fixin of the hour in our minds, when up comes the stage from Tucson. Old Monte, a s'pose a mighty dignified, an a poppin his hip like the crack of a '45, where he was makin camp with his outfit on the dead gallop, an an lookin on these yere signs was a pretty plain he had a swee inside.
"Old Monte was mighty soft on a woman, an his notion of gainin their love an confidence was to clamber on to his stage, tie his reins to the brake, take his whip in one paw an s'pose a shooter in t'other, bang away with each alternate, an send his six horses a-stampedin down 12 miles of mountain trail, a-swingin round corners an a-peerin over precipices scandalous, an all enough for to make a graven image spraddle right out an afoot with fear. I've know'd females as aged ten years just join over the divide once with Monte. The pore, timid creatures would regard him with reluctance an horror ever after till he did so, up to the day he disputes for place with some card sharp's bullet over in Tucson, an went a-shoutin home to heaven, swingin an rattled with the notion that all this yere I relates was the straight, plain trail to a woman's heart.

"Well, the stage stops, an as soon as the door is open out aspers as a black girl gets an ever pulled a dress on over her head. She was put up in black an looked some pale an tired, as she shurely has call to, a-ridin with such a loaded inebriate 40 miles as Old Monte, an the minute she's out she goes into the stage office.
"That young female," says Doc Poets—an you can bet your moccasins Doc Poets knowed his business every trip—is undoubtedly a heap elegant, but whatever she's meditat-in when she comes rosin at a camp like this is a stack too many for her. Whatever do you think youse', Enright?
"I shurely has to pass a hand like that," says Enright. 'At the same time I deplores a pore rank stranger like this yere young woman strikin camp an no one to meet an spread a blanket for her. Now yere's Nellie, Enright continues, turnin at Faro Nell, who's gettin her nose patted with the rest an stands lookin on, 'an it strikes me as a good safe play for Nell to go hold a powwow with her. Now bein a person of tact an likewise a female, all similar to the other. Meanwhile we stands our hands 'till Nell comes scoutin round to us ag'in.
"Me go talk to her?" says Nell. "Well, I'll just foot yere up a whole lot. You hear me? I don't go near her. Not as I'm none too good," continues Nell, a-shovin of her big sombrero back kinder uneasy, 'but if you alls had as much savvy as some prairie dogs you might know mighty well this yere lady wouldn't talk to no such cattle as me.
"Just then this yere strange girl comes to the stage station door an looks out.
"She's sendin up a signal smoke now," says Doc Poets, 'an I'm allowin I'll print up that away an see whatever is up anyhow.' So Doc throes his belt and gun behind the bar, an alone he goes to the stage a foot house. We was all watchin him, an the bow he makes when he throws his rope for her makes us feel proud, 'cause we sees the camp wasn't going to get the worst of it.
"Well, people," says Cherokee Hall, 'we're all some nervous an stampeeded, so s'pose we absorb some beverage pendin Doc's return.'
"We gets our whiskey an sets round, not thinkin much an blame-y in half an hour Doc comes in.
"Gents," he says, 'it devolves on this yere camp to make a mighty delicate play. This yere maiden, who this day hops into our midst, is broke-down, busted; nary a single cent in her baggage. A brood of coters, she says, with no brands or y'ear marks, strays on to this range two years back. She says his name was Good—Jim Good—an they tells her in Tucson he's over yere. I recalls this yere maverick myse' as a man who gets downed over in the Red Light last summer grabbin of a bet in a far game. Of course I'm plenty cunnin an don't divulge none about this shorthorn's death, but puts it up full gulfed as how he's gone somers else. I allows he has plenty of dust an is rollin pood high when he makes his last camp with us.
"This yere," continues Poets, 'pleases her. She says she got a whole outfit of relatives in Frisco an figgers he's gone there an says she'll go too as soon as she done earns the dinero to take her. There's how the deal stands, an I wants your action. I want to say in close that when I sees the joy a-gleamin in her eye when I lets go the lie about her brother, I makes up my mind immediate to formulate and tell her more.
"It's unfortunate," says Enright, 'at a crisis like this that the simple life of Wolfville don't afford a multitude of trails by which a young woman of report an recitoid may travel safe to wealth. I shurely regrets it, but I'm constrained to say this yere camp is no place for this female, an she's quittin winner to leave. It appears farther by the report of Doc Poets she needs money, 'cause she's callin for it. You suggests a way to throw it up.
"Let's all round in round," says Dan Boggs, 'an make a pot for her. Travelin ain't high, an three or four stacks of blues would take her any way.
"That won't do," says Poets. 'I makes a little bluff all sinuor on my own hand, an she gets hostile at the bare mention. We can't give her no money, none whatever. We've just got to rig a deadfall an trap her into takin it.

"I'll go ten blind," says Enright, 'that what Poets states is right. Females is mighty funny that way about takin money from strange men, an it has come to my notice—the deal bein resemblance to this—as how they seem to regard every bill a rattlesnake. Now yere's how we fixes it. Poets brings this female to the New York store, we mean-while adjournin similar. The Red Light's all right, only it ain't no place for the caucus we contem-plates.
"Now this yere is how we'll do," says Enright. 'We'll stampeed over to the store, as I remarks, an then when we're located Doc Poets'll bring in the girl. Then Poets up an says, 'Whoever is yere unke you're tellin me in Frisco?' Just like that. An the girl replies meebly 'It's Jim Jones.' Now yere's where I gets my cards. I laughs all easy an sociable an says: 'Jim Jones? Not old Jones of Frisco? Why, me an Jim was old rumrun makes way in the fifties.' Then, sorter backin the play, as all proper a-discoverin, the child of an old friend, I ups an kisses her. Then we sets round an p'povows, an final I recollects when Jim was 18, close out a claim over in Nevada in 1859—been an interest Jim forgets about—an I urges her, bein she's headed that way, to take Jim's dust to him.
"At this point he overturns her reason still meebly, an says: 'You'll cash a draft on to that Red Dog brother for $100, to take her through to Frisco. I objectin, of course, mighty gulfed, ag'in using any of her Uncle Jim's dust, unless it's forced play some's along 'till Jim Jones.' As to said sum I owes her Uncle Jim, why, we makes it up by chip-pin in, as was suggested by Dan Boggs.
"We takes another round of drinks on this, barker," says Boggs. 'You can gamble old man Enright gets her straight every time.'
"So we all drinks in admiration of Enright, an then Cherokee Hall, who deals faro in the Red Light, gets his stack in.
"Mr. Enright and gents," says he, 'I don't aim to seem romantic, but I'm in favor of sperin the feelings of this yere female. At the same time we lines her out for her Uncle Jim as suggested. Now, what I says is this: 'Stead of givin this female the money s'pose we makes five or six poker games out of this yere assembly—say $200 table stakes—an rakes on tens or better showed, this yere person in distress to take the rake. By pursuoin of this course we encourages trade, provides the money, an the girl ain't under obligations to nobody nor nothin.'
"I'm in on this yere poker game," says Faro Nell, 'an I'll Cherokee.'
"Well, now, yere shurely in it, Nellie," says Cherokee. 'Your chair sets next to mine. I never wants no better people near me.'
"I'll endorse the remark of Mr. Hall," says Doc Poets, 'with my full name. He's a sport and a gentleman. Now you all center over to the store, like Enright says, while I rounds up the girl.'
"Well, that's how we do it. We works round the girl too easy. Enright lies an Poets lies an Cherokee lies. Old man Enright kisses his old pard's niece, an Poets comes in similar, 'cause he knows her brother. It's a gay time, an you bet your poker it takes a heap of woe off the girl.
"Say, Doc," whispers Nell as we goes over to the Red Light to open the poker games, 'tell her to sleep in my room tonight. I won't have to need it 'cause this yere game we're in for's goin to take till mawwin. But don't you never tell her whose it is, or y' see, she'll go campsomers else.'
"Well, son, the rake on these yere poker games was most $800, an we makes her take the whole business claimin the extra was interest on the $453.50 Enright owes unke.
"The law makes her do it, miss," says Poets, 'an you're dead right to take it. There's a heap of had in Wolfville about this yere sharp Enright a-owin your Uncle Jim so long, an if he don't get it squared this yere trip I'll allowin the boys are liable to lynch him some. You'd better save his life; it may save his blood.'
"So the next day we starts her off, first givin old Monte notice we'll down him when he comes back on horse he drives slow. When she's gone, we all feed free an good—like a load off our minds.
"We shoved the cut on her too easy," says Faro Nell as she turns round watchin the stage. 'You all couldn't run no brace game like that on me, you bet; could you, Cherokee? You lars wouldn't stand no show with me. I'd seen your smoke if I'd missed your tracks, an done run upon them lies about my Uncle Jim an what's his own him the first bump you'd make. But don't be blood-fund. I'm powerful glad she's stuck to take her through.'—Dan Quinn in San Francisco Examiner.

A yearling colt by Bermuda, dam by Wilkes Boy, trotted a mile in 2:34 1/2 at Lexington, Ky., last week.

Joe Patchen placed to his credit the three fastest consecutive heats ever placed by a stallion when he defeated John R. Gentry at Sioux City in 2:05, 2:04, 2:04.

Nearly thirty horses either owned or trained in Kentucky won money at the recent meeting at Evansville, Ind. The Kentucky boy still continues to take their part of the purses as the season of 1895 draws to a close.

The following four-year-olds have been named to start in the $5,000 Stallion Representative Stake that will be decided at the Lexington meeting: Lyle 2:15 1/2; Nellie A 2:13; Lemouere 2:14 1/2; B. B. P. 2:04; King Alfred 2:10 1/2; Freedom 2:17 1/2; Baron Dillon 2:12 1/2; Queen Alfred 2:13 1/2; Red Nodding 2:13; Axinite 2:17 1/2; Burlington 2:17 1/2; Red Palace 2:18; Denton 2:15 1/2; Alkora, Georgia.

Mike Bowerman has sold to Frank Blaislock for Mr. Jas. Irwin, of Louisville, a handsome pair of brown geldings. One is by Wilton, dam by Black's Hambletonian, second dam by Mambrino Patchen; third dam by Didlake (son of Mambrino Chief), fourth dam by Mambrino Chief. The other is a son of Alger's Wilkes, out of a mare by Alcyon. They are each 15 hands high and evenly matched. The price paid was $1,000.

At Springfield, Ill., last Friday, Alx made an effort to beat her record of 2:03 1/4 at the State Fair Grounds track. She got off well, and the first three quarters of a mile were made at a 2:08 pace. Coming into the stretch she showed lameness, and the best she could do was 2:13 1/4. Over 20,000 persons were present. Mr. Dowell, the driver of Alx, says that in coaching her back, Alx dislocated her wrist bone, and that by reason of the injury she will probably be unable to race again this year.

A dispatch from Freeport, Ill., says that "Lupatons, the sensational young trotter belonging to M. E. McHenry's string, has just been operated upon by the veterinary surgeon in the hope of benefiting her throat. She has had considerable trouble in breathing when going a fast mile. The doctors opened her throat and inserted a silver tube, which they hope will remedy the difficulty and put her in shape to win the $25,000 stake race at Lexington, Ky., October 8. Driver McHenry feels confident she has the speed to win if the difficulty can be overcome."

The great trotting meeting at Lexington begins to-day. The $25,000 stake, the 2:11 pace for $4,000, and 2:17 trot is to-day's programme. Wednesday will be the free-for-all pace, with Robert J. John R. Gentry, Joe Patchen and others. 2:29 stake trot and the 2:29 trot. On Thursday the great Transylvania stake for $5,000; 2:16 pace and 2:21 trot. On Friday the 2:17 stake for $7,500. It will be the greatest meeting of the year and you will see great sport any day you attend. It will be a ten days' meeting. Write to Ed. A. Tipton for list of entries.

It will be news to many racegoers who saw the big fellow beat Beuzette in 2:05 1/4 at the New York meeting, to learn that President Cleveland drove a full brother to Azote in his carriage in Washington for a time during his present administration, says the New York Tribune. When Mr. Cleveland took his seat in 1893 he requested his friend, Nathan Strauss, of this city, to select a pair of good-looking, good carriage horses for the White House stable. Mr. Strauss says he then had in his collection of trotters the big bay gelding, Pinzote, the brother to Azote, and he let the President have this horse, together with a mate for him. Mr. Cleveland used Pinzote for a time after Azote came out and took a fast record. Mr. Strauss banded the President to trade horses with him, the outcome being that the big son of Whips came to New York, where he now is in the stable of Mr. Strauss. Pinzote is a good road horse, Mr. Strauss says, but he has never been trained for speed. In Cobwebs 2:19, Mr. Strauss has a half brother to Azote, both horses being by the same sire, Whips, the son of Electioneer.

Male Growing for Profit.

One of the chief objects in stock growing is to convert all waste product of the farm into money; another is that you may sell your crops in a more concentrated form, for as much or more than the market price, and the manufacture of cheap fertilizers. For this two-fold purpose nothing seems to be more suitable than the much-noted Tennessee mule. While it is our purpose to show possible superior profits to be made by mule growing, it is well to note how very prosperous our mule grower seems to be. Many of the large estates around us have been acquired chiefly by mule growing. This is so generally true that we often hear the expression that any man of ordinary ability who will devote his time to mule growing and stay out of speculation, is sure of a competency, and even independence, should he live to a great old age.

Our great drawback to mule growing is the capital necessary to the business. To stock your farm with mules requires as much capital as your farm cost you, and most of us would prefer two farms to one farm and a few mules. If, as it seems, a few mules will bring another farm, how may we best get the mule? Let our work stock be mares such as are capable of raising the green "sugar mule." We mean by this mules can be grown to 15.3 to 16.2 at 2 1/2 to 3 years old. How may we know when we have such mares? Why, we believe in the old rule, "like begets like," and, since the mule is to be used solely for draft purposes, it stands good to reason that the best draft mares belong to the best draught jack would produce the desirable mule, and so it will, but what is the best draught mare? It is not that big overgrown, water-jointed, lifeless monstrosity of no certain breeding. Such animals cannot carry their own weight very far, while a draught mare is that mare, regardless of breed, that can carry the greatest weight the greatest distance in a given time. By this test such a mare is not likely to be the largest individual of any breed, but a medium mare of a large breed of family. She should have weight and style, a good dark, solid color, good, flat bone, and big, blocky feet, with legs that cannot be blemished. But after all, the only true test is try her and it is not in three feet four inches or more, and built right, the mare a good suckler, don't be duped into selling her, for on such hinges your success. What we have said of mares may be largely applied to the jack. But since the mule is the product of man's invention, it has been observed that the head, ear, foot and bone are largely controlled by the jack and the mares give the body; see that your jack has a good head, ear, foot and bone, with good color; and don't forget to look to his pedigree. See that his ancestors on both sides are as good, or better than he. Don't risk a first-class jack that has a screw for its dam.

What about that expression we so often hear, "if you want a good mule, breed to the oldest jack you can find?" Why, it only proves what there is in a pedigree. See if his full brothers are not high priced, royal fellows, with a full harem of jennets; see if his crooked legs and other defects are not directly caused by the neglect of his owner.—Cor. Southern Stock Farm.

Remedy For Lice On Swine.

This is what a Swine Breeder says about a remedy for lice on swine: "Crude carbolic acid and lard, equal parts; apply on the neck, around the ears, back of the forelegs, on the back part of the hams, in the flanks and along the back. Coat oil and lard, and coat all and lard, and coat all parts, applied to the same parts of the animal just mentioned. In addition to the application to the animal, the sleeping quarters should be thoroughly sprinkled several times with coal oil or the crude carbolic acid and water."—Journal of Agriculture.

Bradley's Flicker.

The Hon. W. O. Bradley went into his campaign with the bloodcurdlingest war-whoop that ever rose from Kentucky's soil since the days of Daniel Boone, says the Memphis Commercial-Appeal. He went out of it with the yelp of a cur-dice preceding a clattering oyster can down the stony street. For Wm. O. is not in it any more. He has tucked his tail and fled the field. He is no longer the terrible Bradley who was advertised to eat live Democrats like oysters. He is no longer a war ringer, rampaging Numidian lion, splitting the earth with his thunderous roar and swinging his tufted tail feet in the air. He is simply Bul Bradley, who flunked and then threw up the sponge, as soon as he got a hot one in his ribs. Bill simply didn't come up to the specifications. He had the jawline progress in debate, the awful reach of his deadly tongue, the cyclonic ventosity of his omnipotent lungs, all these things were down on the bills, but they didn't appear in the show. That which was a Royal Bengal tiger has shrunk to the dimensions of a harmless and very unnecessary cat. The plumed knight we had been reading about is simply a vainglorious pretender, whose white plume is a stiff catanant, a sheep in wolf's clothing. Henceforth his name is Ishodad and Dennis and Mr. Mudd. He is the dominick of the cockpit who squawks at the first touch of the gaff. He is the rankest quitter that ever went to the post with a thoroughbred and threw up his tail at the quariet post.

This is the last of Brad. He has done the one thing that the Kentuckians will not forgive. He has flickered. He has turned tail. He has abasquinated in the face of the enemy. He has chewed off his trigger finger to keep out of the fight. Henceforth Brad. is the thing that was. He is a pickled oyster. He is a soup-soaked reminiscence, a lagging and superfluous Has Been, hanging on the ragged edge of Now. He is a bubble that rose to the surface when Bill Bradley, the Terrible, went down. He is a burst bladder, a last year's bird's nest, a back number.

So endeth the strange, eventful history of the Mad Moos of the Kentucky coon.

The Mutton Sheep of the Future.

George W. Franklin says: "The breed of sheep that is to be popular in the future must of necessity be an early maturing breed. They must be a distinctly mutton variety, with all the mutton qualities well developed. They must be good keepers, good nurses and, above all, good sellers. They should dress not less than 60 per cent. of prime mutton, and the quality should be such that the buyer of this kind will not accuse the market man of selling him goat meat. This breed is in existence, and it is not confined to one breed, and we hope the time is near at hand when sheep will be bred for a purpose that can make money for its owner, and not always be subject to changes in legislation to make it a profitable sheep. The profitable sheep will preclude the use of scrub rams and scrub cars. It means good feed and plenty of it, and, above all, it means that American sheep farming has entered on a new development in which all the possibilities are distributed along the line of good mutton. Mutton sheep and liberal feeding, coupled with early maturity, will be the requisites of profitable sheep production in the near future."

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would be without it, if it were possible. A. Dykeman, Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at W. S. Lloyd's drugstore. Regular size 50 cents and $1.

Anyone Can Dream Success.

It's quite another thing to win it. When a business grows as anyone wide-awake can see that it is growing, there's a very good reason for it. We know what those reasons are, so do thousands of careful buyers hereabouts. We want more thousands to know. A confidence exists between the people and this store because of an acquaintance of 35 years' mutual service. Certainty that patrons get the largest selections of goods at our store, and that their purchases at the lowest prices, is the confidence we have in us. We want the people to discover what is to their own interest. Working successfully seems to double one's strength.

W. F. HORTON.

Public Speaking.

Hon. H. T. Tyler, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, will speak at the Court-house in this city, to-morrow (Wednesday) afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Frank Horton, the Democratic nominee for Representative from this Legislative District is making an active canvass, and is on every hand receiving most gratifying evidences of his popularity. Mr. Horton's record as a clean, honest and faithful business man, and an active party worker are things over which his Republican opponent cannot hope to win.

W. O. Bradley, the Republican candidate for Governor, who gained for himself the contempt of all Kentuckians by his cowardly skulking out of the joint debate with General Hardin, has not made much headway in his gentlemanly canvass. He fails to awaken the enthusiasm among his followers that was expected when he was nominated. He committed the one sin that Kentuckians will not forgive when he showed the white feather, and though he froths at the mouth, and makes the wildest of wild charges against the Democratic party, his speeches fall on dull and listless ears, because he is not able to face his adversary. There is going to be a great victory in November and Mr. Bradley will after that time be an unconsidered factor in state politics.

W. O. Bradley has not once, but more than once, said by his vote he will honor a negro in preference to one of his own race. Thus he has challenged the deep ground prejudice of the people of Kentucky. No people are willing to be kinder to or more considerate of the inferior race, that is among us, but they will not submit to the disgrace of having a member of it rule over them. Mr. Bradley has said to the white people of Kentucky, by his vote, "a negro is just as good as one of you." This is a taunt a Kentuckian does not tamely brook, and many will be the votes Mr. Bradley will lose in consequence of it. Bill Bradley will be sent to the rear, just where he belongs by the people of Kentucky.

There are some Supple Jacks going over the State, by some, called orators, but are only representatives in politics of the Republican party. They insult and make charges against the head of the Democratic ticket, who are only bullies. Gen. Hardin's official acts have always been open for investigation and at no time has there ever been any crookedness that could be applied to him. He has been honest and bold, and the same tactics in his canvass frightened Bradley from the stump. He could not meet the facts thrown into his teeth and like a yellow dog kicked in the side he snarled, tucked his tail and squeaked off. For this so called man Supple Jacks are howling from every stump and "Ring, Ring," is all they can say. The Republican party has caused by their Legislation the panic times from which we are now recovering. They left the U. S. Treasury empty and if they could get hold of our State at fair, where in the name of Heaven would we be.

BIG BARBECUE.

Democracy and Burgoo Will Flow As From a Fountain.

The following note was, yesterday, received from Hon. J. M. Benton, of Winchester:
Winchester, Ky., Oct. 14, 1895.
Dear Sirs:—There will be a Democratic barbecue at Natural Bridge, in Powell county, Thursday, Oct. 24th. Speaking by Gen. Hardin, Col. Breckinridge, Col. A. S. Berry, Judge Beckner, Hon. A. G. Caruth and others. Special train on K. U. or L. & E. from Lexington that morning. Your people can meet at K. U. Junction and return that evening. Low rate; plenty of beef. Get out a good crowd.
J. M. BENTON.

John C. Wood, the Republican candidate for Railroad Commissioner, has a load to carry in his record of voting for a negro for office in preference to a white man, that will prove a burden too heavy to stand up under. His vote along this line is a matter of public record and cannot be denied or explained away. That the people of Eastern Kentucky will not vote for a man who thus wantonly insults the intelligence of his own race, has already been, and John C. Wood will find they hold it against him also.

Attention, Democrats!

At a meeting of the City Democratic Committee for Mt. Sterling, Ky., held on Oct. 12, 1895 it was ordered that mass conventions be held, on Friday, Oct. 18, 1895 at 2 o'clock p. m. at each voting place in said city for the purpose of nominating two Democratic candidates in each ward for Councilmen for said city.

H. R. FRENCH,
Ch'm City Democratic Committee.

Public Speaking.

Hon. H. M. Woodford and Judge B. F. Day, are announced to speak at the Court-house in Frenchburg, on Saturday, October 19, 1895. Speaking to begin at 1 o'clock, p. m. Col. Thos. Turner will also speak at Frenchburg on Saturday, October 26, 1895.

Mass Conventions will be held in each ward of the city on Friday (Oct. 18), for the purpose of nominating candidates on the Democratic ticket for councilmen. See call elsewhere in this issue by H. R. French, Chairman of City Committee.

"Bradley Flickered" is the title of an article on another page. Read and enjoy it. It is a true likeness of Bradley to-day. He yelps loud by himself but don't come to meet Hardin any more.

Big Fish.

Messrs. Robert Barnes, sr., and Jacob Trumbo are up in Carter county fishing, and yesterday they sent in three pike that weighed 25 pounds. The largest of the three weighed 11 pounds.

Claude Pexton and Charlie Petry came home telling what big fish they hooked and didn't get, but Uncle Bob and Uncle Jake sent in the fish as proof of what they do.

Mr. Geo. W. Anderson, a highly respected citizen and prominent business man, of Portsmouth, O., died on Oct. 8th, aged 65 years. Many years ago, Mr. Anderson was a citizen of this county and is remembered by the older ones of our community. Before the war he sold goods at Howard's Mill, and from about '61 to '66 he was engaged in the mercantile business in Mt. Sterling in partnership with the late C. J. Glover. His son, George B. Anderson, married Annie, daughter of his old partner, C. J. Glover. Mr. Anderson was not only a good business man, but his life was full of good deeds done to elevate and ennoble his fellows. The local papers devote wide space to eulogize on the life of this Christian gentleman and useful citizen.

Digby Bell, "Nancy Lee."

Digby Bell is coming here with Fred Miller's new theatrical opera, "Nancy Lee." He plays the part of Gabriel Swift, a role drawn strongly from life, and one that was familiar to many communities, some thirty years ago, during our civil war. Gabriel Swift is a provost-marshal, and is fashioned after a fellow who lived out west known to have been a horse doctor, school master, town squire, in fact anything you saw fit to call him, and always conspicuous in political gatherings. When war was declared, he was by some manner of means made provost-marshal of the district, an appointment which gave him supreme power. He could order a citizen to be shot on the thinnest pretext, and could even exercise his authority on high officials. Physically, he was the tallest thing in the district. It will be seen from the above that the author of "Nancy Lee" has ample opportunities to create laughter and merriment. For instance, he brings Swift on board a United States man-of-war to interfere for the release of a nephew, who is a prisoner of war. Assuming his provost-marshal's supremacy, he threatens with death a sailor who has paid no heed to his presence, whereupon the Yankee tar throws him overboard thus showing that Colonels, Generals and Provost-marshals may be all right on dry land, but in the navy they "are not in it." At Grand Opera House, Oct. 28.

In every instance, but what pleases an highly educated, up-to-date mechanical expert, who is thoroughly posted on the construction of bicycles, from a wheelman's standpoint, as well as that of a strictly high-grade mechanic, is a pretty good pointer to buyers who are in search of the best the market affords.

R. F. Maxwell, Mgr. Indiana Bicycle Co., City.

DEAR SIR:—Referring to the Waverley bicycle which I bought of you a few weeks ago, I will candidly admit that I am delighted with it. My first impression was one of surprise at the ease and smoothness of its motion. It appears to be ample strong and substantial in construction and every one must admit that it is most graceful in appearance. I consider it a strictly high grade machine; otherwise I should not have bought it. It is all you claim it to be. Wishing you well merited success, I remain yours truly,

Sick Headache and Neuralgia Cured

by Hood's

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has done me a great deal of good. I have been a sufferer from sick headache and neuralgia nearly all my life. The pains had become so intense that my hands would cramp for hours so that I could not use them. The doctor told my husband there was little help for me. The different medicines tried had greatly disordered me. Since using two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla I have realized relief, so much so that I feel like a new person. Our little boy has been troubled with his throat but since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, soreness and hoarseness have gone and he is better than ever." Mrs. MATTIE COOPER, Dukedom, Tenn.

FOR SALE

The Best Business in Montgomery County.

We have decided to sell privately our ice plant and business in this city.

It consists of a six ton ice plant in excellent repair and the ice made by this plant is the best made in this country, which is attributed largely to the quality of water used. We have a ready sale for every lump of ice we can produce at a good profit, and we can convince anyone desiring to purchase, that our statements are correct. In connection with the ice plant we have a wholesale beer business the profit on which is a good business in itself. This business was established five years ago, and on the amount of money which we ask for it, we have realized in one year from 25 to 35 per cent net. We also offer for sale the residence of J. M. Pickrell, one of the best, most convenient and most modern houses in the city, situated on Holt Avenue, close to the business center of the city.

Our reason for selling: We began the establishment of this business with little capital, and the labor it required to pull through, has been so arduous that it has left Mr. J. M. Pickrell in poor health, and he must have a rest. Were it not for this fact it would not be for sale at any price. Call on or address

IT IS NOT PARADISE BUT—

If you have some cash to spare and are willing to work, financial independence cannot be more surely secured than by buying a few acres of irrigated land in Salt River Valley.

This valley is in Southern Arizona, and is noted for its fine semi-tropical fruits and superior climate. Horticulturists say that greater profits can be realized here from oranges and grapes than in Florida or California. Physicians assert that the warm, bracing climate excels in healing qualities Italy's balmy airs. The great blizzard of 1892 did not blight the tenderest leaf in this protected spot.

said, the early records of the church are meager, and in most cases very imperfectly kept so that it has been impossible to gather all the facts.

At no time in the history of the church has there been any great religious awakening, but scarcely a year has passed without the lagathering of some into her communion. It has passed through many storms and encountered many difficulties, but these have only strengthened the faith of her members and driven them to Him who alone is able to restore the troubled waters to a calm.

Until within the past eleven years the church only held preaching services once every two weeks, and oftentimes in earlier years were without stated preaching. But in spite of reverses it has always made progress and been ready to push forward in any good work; always found in the front rank of any enterprise for the upbuilding of the Master's kingdom. The past eleven years have been the most marked for advancement of any in her history. During that time there has been raised for various purposes $17,874. There have been added to the church roll during the same period 103 names. These are merely the tangible and visible results, for the real good in its entirety will never be known this side the judgement. The years immediately following the division in the church were years of sacrifice and labor, but it developed a greater spirit of liberality and an increased interest in the Master's service. While it must always be regretted that a separation was thought necessary, yet we can but acknowledge that it was the means of developing more activity on the part of the membership of both churches than they had hitherto manifested, and if the time shall ever come when God in His wisdom shall see fit to unite them again, the reunited church will be stronger than it would otherwise have been.

But all these things are in the past. We can not turn them again to-day. We must be better than our fathers were, or be unworthy the high calling which is ours. Whatever successes they achieved should inspire our hearts with a desire to accomplish greater things; whatever mistakes they made should warn us to guard well the trust that has been committed unto us, relying solely on the grace of the great head of the church to guard us from error.

As we gather here to-day to do honor to the memory of those who established this church and who labored here during past years, it is not so much that we may praise them and their labors, but that we may gain an inspiration for greater service in days to come. These hallowed walls wherein they worshiped bid us go forward; their voices from out the past speak to us urging to a renewed consecration; their unseen spirits hover over us to-day breathing the benediction of the Father of Spirits and beckon us on to the great work which is still before, and may the God of Hosts look down from heaven and behold and visit this vine and the vineyard, which His right hand has planted and the branch that He made strong for Himself, that we may not go back from Him, that we may be quickened, that we may call upon His name.

A VOTE OF THANKS.

The following resolution was passed by the Synod of Kentucky before its adjournment:

RESOLVED, 1st. We congratulate the First Presbyterian church of Mt. Sterling upon the completion of one hundred years of its existence and usefulness. We also congratulate the pastor, Rev. A. J. Arrick, and the session of this church upon the appropriate and excellent manner in which they have celebrated this most interesting event. The history of the church read by Elder L. T. Chiles, the loving and tender addresses by the former pastors of the church, Revs. W. O. Goodloe and Henry M. Rogers, and the testimony they bore to the elevated spiritual character of faithfulness of the members of the church; the addresses by Rev. J. C. Alfalfa For Hogs.

The alfalfa bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture says:

One acre of alfalfa will furnish forage for from ten to twenty hogs per season. There is no cheaper or better way of producing pork than to allow growing pigs to run in a field of alfalfa. At a conservative estimate, ten pigs per acre will gain 100 pounds each during the season from May to September, and 1,000 pounds of pork cannot be produced so cheaply on any other feed. The pigs will come out of the field in autumn in capital condition to fatten with corn or small grain. The alfalfa in a hog pasture should be mowed once or twice during the summer, or whenever it begins to get hard and woody. This will provide plenty of young and tender herbage, which is more nutritious, weight for weight, than forage from the older plants, and if the swine are provided with this food in its most nutritious condition, their growth will be most rapid. They need to be provided with an abundance of fresh or running water in the pastures.

Coleman-Wilson.

Mr. Lindsey H. Coleman and Miss Mattie Davis Wilson will be married at the home of the bride's father, Mr. J. D. Wilson, on Wednesday, November 6, 1895, at 4:30 p. m. Elder H. D. Clark will officiate at the ceremony that makes this excellent couple man and wife. Everybody knows, and all who know, like Lin. Coleman. He is a bright and diligent young business man, who, if life is spared him, will be heard from in the busy world in the no very distant future. His promised wife is one of the sweetest, most loving and most lovable girls we know, who will make the man of her choice a help-mate indeed. After the marriage the couple will take a trip South, including a visit to several of the principle cities of that section. On their return home they will take rooms at Mrs. E. Coleman's, on High street. The Advocate, in advance, extends congratulations.

Cards are out announcing the candidacy C. H. Bryan and W. A. Sutton for Councilmen of the First Ward; J. M. Isola and J. W. Burroughs for the Second Ward, and C. G. Glover and Jo M. Conroy for the Fourth Ward, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Four of the above gentlemen are serving the city as Councilmen now. They have been faithful and watchful of the city's interest and we know of no others who could have done better. The other two, Mr. Sutton and Mr. Burroughs, we believe, will guard our interests as faithfully and intelligently, but if in the wisdom of the party there are others who could serve the city better, let them have them. In this case it is not the man seeking the position, but the position them, and it is the call of duty alone that will prompt their acceptance. In the Third Ward we understand the negroes are having secret meetings, excluding even the white Republican voters, with the view of putting out candidates, and should they decide to make a race contest, there is a sufficient number of them in this ward to insure their election.

Lexington Trote.

On last Wednesday the great pacing race between Robert J. Jo Patchen and John R. Gentry took place. The track was fast but the day was cold with a piercing wind from the North, making fast time impossible. The race was a great one and the struggle between these fast pacers was enough to stir most any man. Robert J. drew the pole with Patchen 2nd, Coleridge 3d, Gentry on outside. They got the wind after a few scores and the battle began. Robert J. set a heart breaking pace which Patchen did not shrink from. These two went as a double team to the half in 1:01. At this point Patchen, white horse was showing in front, Robert J. still kept up the clip, with the black horse right at his head. The pace was terrific, but Patchen never faltered, before they reached the three-fourths pole, Robert J. gamas he could not stand the strain and left his feet. From there home Patchen had all his own way and won in a jog in 2:08. If Patchen had not been drawn in, the mile would have been, in 2:04 or better. We never saw as game a fight on any track as this heat was, and there is no horse living that could stand the strain of having that black demon hang so persistently for three-fourths of a mile at the clip they were going without giving up. The second heat Gentry took a hand. Patchen set the pace with Robert J. a close second, but the clip was not so fast to the half. Gentry being a good third and Coleridge two lengths back. From the half beam the fight was hot as they entered the stretch. Gentry was coming up on the outside very fast and with a great burst of speed McHenry landed Gentry a winner by a neck from Patchen with Robert J. only a half length back. The finish of the heat was a grand one. The third heat was another great battle. Patchen took the pole from Gentry before the half was reached, but Robert J. was determined to stay with the leader. There was no lagging on the back side stretch. It was a battle royal to the wire, Robert J. winning in a whip-clip finish by a head from Patchen with Gentry a length back, Coleridge fourth. The fourth heat Robert J. and Patchen did the fighting. They were head and head at the quarter, but before the half was reached Patchen had the pole and held it to the wire. Geers, thinking it useless to force the black horse out at the expense Robert J. Gentry not making any move for the heat. It was evident from the start that Curran and McHenry were out to beat the Hamilton entry. The time was 2:09, and Patchen had two heats to his credit. For the fifth heat McHenry being satisfied that Robert J. was done for, concluded that he could now beat the black horse with Gentry, and try the old but Patchen would not down, and won the heat and race under a whipping finish from Gentry by half a length, Coleridge third, Robert J. fourth, time 2:08. This closed one of the greatest races we ever saw. No one who saw the race can help admire the gameness of Jo Patchen. During the five heats he never raised his head once, but took the whip and fought each heat from start to finish, and after whipping Robert J. had to administer the same dose to John R. Gentry, which is a thing that no horse but Jo Patchen could do. Patchen to-day is the greatest horse on the turf.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound of imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free. J. F. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c. 10-5t

A WEEK OF PRESBYTERIANISM.

Ebenezer Presbytery Synod of Kentucky and Woman's Missionary Society.

The services in connection with the centennial of the First Presbyterian Church, closed Friday night, having been full of interest from beginning to end.

Monday night Ebenezer Presbytery convoked being opened with a sermon by the retiring Moderator, Rev. Henry A. Brown. "Father" Caldwell was elected Moderator, and in his speech of acceptance informed his hearers that he would not complete his fifty-eighth year as a minister until Wednesday, next, his eighty-fourth year of life until next month. In his presiding, as in his sermon of Sunday morning, he showed himself to be still an active man.

The Synod was opened Friday night by the retiring Moderator of that body, Rev. C. P. Luce, of Owensboro. Rev. J. J. Blackburn, of Covington, was elected Moderator, and Rev. E. L. Warren, of Louisville, Temporary Clerk. The Committee on Arrangements made its report, setting apart Wednesday as a special day for the centennial exercises proper.

At 8:30 a. m. Wednesday, Synod convened for a business session, and, beginning at 10 o'clock for the Centennial exercises.

The first item on the programme was a history of the Church, by L. T. Chiles. It is enough to simply say that the history was prepared and read by Mr. Chiles, as it is published in full in another column we forbear commenting.

The committee had given a place on the programme for reminiscences, but judging from the length at which Brothers Goodloe and Rainsy spoke, and the interest with which the people listened, the time was entirely too short. Many amusing incidents were related by these gentlemen.

It would be impossible for us, with the limited time and space we have, to speak of all the addresses in full, but they were delivered by some of the most prominent men in Kentucky, and were all masterpieces in themselves. Rev. J. C. Mott spoke on "The Relation of Presbyterianism to Other Denominations." Dr. Martin's name had been placed on the programme but he was prevented from participating on account of sickness. The committee found a good substitute, however, in Dr. Phraner, who spoke on "A Century of Missions." The two addresses following, on "Presbyterianism, Its Present and Future," by Drs. Hamilton and Worrell, closed the afternoon programme, but before the congregation dispersed the communion of the Lord's Supper was observed.

The audience which gathered in the evening taxed the building to its utmost capacity. Dr. Hays, of Mayeville, spoke on "The Relation of Presbyterianism to Education." Dr. Hays, though deprived of sight, stands second to none in his ability as a thinker and orator. He was followed by Dr. Condit, of Ashland, who spoke on "Christian Citizenship." Every voter in the State should have heard that address. It was a masterful plea for the carrying of one's religion into their politics without in the least degrading the religion.

We can not pass by the music of the occasion, furnished by the orchestra of the Presbyterial Sunday School under the leadership of Prof. Arthur Neville, and the solos by Misses Hendrick and Avers.

The entire day was a rich feast, and the First Presbyterian Church is to be congratulated upon the success of their celebration.

Thursday was devoted to the business of Synod, the most important item of which was the change made in their Home Mission plan looking to self support, establishing headquarters at Louisville. Synod adjourned Thursday night to meet in the College Street Church, Louisville, next October.

On Thursday night Dr. Phraner delivered an address on the subject of "Our Own Land as a Mission Field."

The Ladies' Synodical Society of Home and Foreign Missions held a meeting Thursday and Friday in the Southern Presbyterian Church at which much important business was transacted. Mrs. McKee, of Danville, was elected President of the Home Society, and Mrs. Lewis, of Louisville, President of the Foreign Society.

Friday night was the closing service of the week and was in charge of the ladies, who proved themselves not one whit behind their "fellow lords" in ability. In fact the men had better look well to their laurels or the sisters will wear them in their stead. There were three addresses, each of which were equal to any of those delivered by their brothers. Mrs. Lewis spoke on "Love for Christ." Miss Farley, of Utah, told of her work among the Mormons, and Miss Holmes, of Syria, held the audience with rapt attention while she spoke of Syria. The meeting closed at half past nine o'clock, but the audience seemed loth to leave. The verdict of all is that the meetings have been full of interest, and we will be glad to have these people meet with us again.

Mrs. A. J. Arrick, president of the local society, was entirely self-reliant, dealing with grace and dignity, introducing each speaker with appropriate remarks.

Little Clay, the eighteen months old son of John B. Phipps, is very sick and his demise is expected at any moment.

Marvelous Result

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gundersen, of Dimondale, Michigan, we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery. It was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results. Trial bottles free at W. S. Lloyd's DrugStore. Regular size 50c. and 1.00.

In the Stock Farm $6,000 purse for foals of 1895 to be contested in 1897, it costs only one-twentieth of one per cent. to start, and the last and largest payment does not have to be made until June 1, 1897 the year of the race.

The party committees—Democratic and Republican—of Lexington, met last week and made up a compromise ticket for school trustees, four of each party, hoping by this method to turn the woman's ticket down.

Judge Jas. W. Groves, of the city, was appointed on the committee to appear at the last session of the Grand Lodge of L. O. O. F., a very important committee. He with Past Grand, G. H. Strother made their report to Watson Lodge last evening.
